Hamilton County has a new Dog Warden. As the office responsible for dog licensing, we are looking forward to working with Cincinnati Animal CARE Humane Society! I urge you to step up, get involved, and make a difference for each Hamilton County stray dog.

---Dusty Rhodes---

Cincinnati Animal CARE Humane Society is Hamilton County's new Dog Warden and animal shelter/animal services operator, responsible for sheltering homeless and stray animals and responding to calls reporting dogs that are being abused, neglected or a danger to others.

The new organization is no stranger to its life-saving work, having operated the Clermont County shelter and animal control functions for the last 2.5 years. During that time, its approach to no-kill sheltering led to 98% of animals taken in being saved.

Cincinnati Animal CARE is committed to producing similar results in Hamilton County by providing unique programs that help reduce the number of animals entering the shelter in the first place. These include working with pet owners find solutions and alternatives to surrendering their animals; and providing behavior-modification training and daily one-on-one socialization and interaction with every dog while in the shelter, which helps facilitate their adoption.
